Christine Clifford : Cancer Has Its Privileges: Stories of Hope and Laughter before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Cancer Has Its Privileges: Stories of Hope and Laughter:

1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. Notes from a survivor By Patsy I first came upon this book about a year after I was diagnosed with Breast Cancer. I wish I had known about this book while I was going through Chemo and Radiation. The stories are the best, and they make you laugh and the book is just helpful to others going through this ordeal and also their support group. I bought one book and gave it to my oncologist to keep in the little library in the chemo room. I have since bought many copies of this book that I have given to others who have been diagnosed with Breast Cancer. I just found out that one of the wholesalers who often comes into the branch where I work, his wife was just diagnosed. I have just purchased another 3 copies to keep on hand, just in case. This September 18th I will celebrate 10 years cancer free, life is good. 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Five Stars By Sandra Smith Gave as a gift to my sister. 3 of 3 people found the following review helpful. All cancer patients should have this book. By Merry Perry This book was given to me by a friend and I recommend it to everyone I know who has cancer. Although I would have preferred not to have such privileges, it is very true that there are benefits to being a cancer patient. This book takes a light look at some experiences to which we can relate, and laughter is extremely important. Cancer Has Its Privileges: Stories of Hope and Laughter

Cancer survivor and founder of The Cancer Clubreg, Christine Clifford has been sharing her inspiring, humorous outlook on living with cancer with thousands of cancer patients and their families. Now she has gathered a collection of battlefield stories and anecdotes from her fellow survivors that go from the outright hilarious to the downright moving, and combined them with her own personal story of triumphant survival.

"The perfect dose of medicine for anyone whose life has been touched by cancer." —Michele Smith, Olympic gold medalist "A remarkable woman whose sense of humor became her best weapon against an often dehumanizing disease." —Arnold Palmer, from the Introduction About the Author Christine Clifford has written two award-winning books about cancer, Not Now...I'm Having a No Hair Day and Our Family Has Cancer, Too!, written especially for children. She is President and CEO of The Cancer Clubreg, which markets humorous and helpful products internationally for people who have cancer.
